

Corporate Services Manager

A key leadership role in a unique organisation

The Independent Police Conduct Authority (the IPCA) is an independent body set up by Parliament to keep watch over Police. It has recently created the key position of Corporate Services Manager.

This position is responsible for the effective and efficient leadership and delivery of the IPCA's corporate and administrative services, and provision of assurance to the Chair and Board. This includes financial management, compliance with Crown entity reporting requirements, human resources management, information technology, communications, and administrative systems and processes. In addition, this position contributes to strategic management of the IPCA as a member of the Management Team.

What the IPCA is looking for

Experience in leading and managing people, proven financial management experience, a strong understanding of Crown entity planning, reporting and budget requirements, and the ability to manage complex change are essential for this role.
